Tall White 'Y' Greet Friday Game Guests

A block Y of precast Stone was presented to the BYU Wednesday night by the Y Center and the Y, symbolizing the spirit of the Y, according to Dave Boyack, Social Vice President.

DESIGNED by Fred Markham, architect of the Y Center and the stadium, the emblem was donated by Don Rymon, of Stylecrete, Inc. of Salt Lake City.

The Y weighs 1,500 pounds and is five feet tall, four a one-half feet wide and eleven and one-half inches thick and was hoisted into place by a huge crane.

MOUNTED atop the emblem will be an eighteen inch burner which will produce an eighteen inch flame of natural gas.

The Who Lights the "Y" Committee, a newly formed standing committee composed of the ASBYU President, the Alumni Secretary, the ASBYU Vice President of Student Relations, the Senate President, the Legal Counsel of BYU, and the Dean of Students, will select one person to light the flame atop the structure before each game.

TO LIGHT the Y for the first time BYU cross-country runners will carry a torch from the Terrace in Salt Lake City to the new stadium.

Just prior to the 2 p.m. Conference session of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints a member of the Church First Presidency will light the torch that will begin the torchman relay ending at 7:50 p.m. in Provo.

A DIFFERENT person will be selected to re-light the Y at each of BYU's home games. He will be chosen on the basis of his service to the BYU, his high moral and ethical principles, his outstanding accomplishments in his personal life, and his service to his fellow man.

The person may be chosen from the studentbody, faculty, administration, or BYU alumnus. The cost of installation and maintenance will be paid for out of the four class budgets.

Snake Dance To Highlight Game Friday

Sparkle, fliz, bang and a curricular snake dance will begin BYU's home football season. Activities boom off Thursday with a Pep Rally at 8 p.m. at the City and County Bldg. steps, downtown Provo, according to Dale Hall, chairman of the event.

Celebrities present; will be the Sugar football team headed by Coach Tom Hufsch, Cosmo with his capers, the cheerleaders singing yells and the Pep Band furnishing the music for singing and the Flag Twirlers' and Song leaders' activities.

Following the pep rally, a snake dance will wind up University Ave. to the downtown area.

Downtown merchants will be open late Thursday to allow their employees to attend the Stadium grand opening Friday so students are asked to park their cars on on-campus parking lots a free downtown parking.

Dr. Richard Poll, left, right, gets expert camera instruction from Joe White, left, and Val Ogden, teacher of the History 170 TV class, Dr. Poll can control the cameras from the BYU-developed and built desk.

Queen Activity Begins

Deadline for homecoming queen applications has been set at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Homecoming office, 113 Y Center, according to Lloyd Pendleton, Homecoming Queen Committee Chairman. Forms are available in the Homecoming office.

AN ORIENTATION meeting for all candidates will be held Friday at 5:30 p.m. in the Smith Banquet Hall. At this time the contestants will receive instructions for the following week.

Each girl will begin a given a white Mum which she will wear to help the studentbody recognize and become better acquainted with her, Mr. Pendleton said. Linda Smith, last year's Homecoming Queen, Kilee Worsley, BYU Women's counselor, and the queen committee, will be at the orientation meeting with instructions and advice for the candidates.

All contestants are especially urged to attend this meeting to receive the schedule of coming events and become familiar with the contest plans.

American History Gets New Look Through Television Camera Lens

The new instructional television method is being used for History 170 classes for the first time on the campus this fall.

An Eidophor projector is capable of projecting live television from the lecture stage, as well as pre-recorded videotaped lectures, films or slides. The picture is seen on a giant 18 by 24 foot television screen.

HISTORY 170, which is being taught in two sections, each accommodating approximately 1,000 students, will be presented in Smith Auditorium, according to T. M. Williams, director of radio and television.

However, until remodeling of the facility is completed the course is being held in the new Harris Fine Arts Center.

COURSES ARE taught by Dr. Richard Poll of the History Department in consultation with members of both the History and Political Science Depts. The course will include two TV presentations a week, plus a quiz section.

All students will be assigned to the special help sections to be conducted by graduate students of the two consulting departments.

OTHER SECTIONS of the course also will be taught in the conventional teacher-class situation without the use of television so that comparisons can be made.

Instructional television has had some prior experimental use on the campus. The College of Family Living used it in the teaching of a non-credit Economics of the Household course last year.

Other departments are going over teaching programs to determine possible use of instructional television.

ONE UNIQUE FEATURE of television instruction is the development of a special Teledesk. A television camera is mounted on it which will view slides, printed matter, and films projected onto the frosted glass desk top. The desk has a retractable drawer with three television monitors which enable the instructor to control the cameras placed in the audience above the desk.

The special console was designed and built by the Broadcast Services Production staff of BYU and is mounted on wheels and adjustable to the individual's height.

Grants Ready For Graduates

Applications are being accepted at BYU for study in foreign countries under the Fulbright-Hays fellowship program of the United States government.

Deadline for applications is Oct. 15 according to Dean Wesley P. Lloyd of the Graduate School. SEVERAL KINDS of grants are available. Students interested in study, research or teaching assistantships may apply for a full grant from the U.S., a joint grant with a participating country or travel grant.

A student must have a bachelor's degree by the time his grant begins. More than 900 grants are available throughout the United States for work in some 53 countries.

More Adults Realize, Higher Education Vital

Approximately 4700 students are currently participating in the BYU Home Study program, according to the 1954-55 Home Study Bulletin which just came off the press.

With a gain of a thousand over last year, the enrollment represents the largest increase for the Home Study program since its initiation in 1922.

"Adults are realizing that higher education is vital in their everyday lives," said Miss Lala Clegg, chairman of the Home Study Department of the Division of Continuing Education.

Two hundred forty-one courses, ranging from Accounting to Zoology, and 27 high school courses are currently offered in the course response curriculum. The faculty is composed of 157 teachers. Religion courses, with the study of the Book of Mormon as the leader, are the most popular subjects.

"All kinds of people, all ages, and with varied occupations take in our program," Miss Clegg said. Several men in the Utah State prison are enrolled, and 350 men in the armed services, in cooperation with the United States Armed Forces Institute, take part in the program.

Housewives, with a desire to continue their education make up the major part of the enrollment.

'In Retrospect'- Pre-Game Show

"In Retrospect" a glance at the history of BYU football and its stadiums will be presented Friday at 7 p.m. students, under the direction of Doug Stewart.

Clubs participating in the pre-game program will be the Cougars, the Cougar Club and the Young Men.

The program will feature Father Time as he traces the story of our football past. It was especially written for the inauguration of the new stadium.

YD President's Lecture Changed

Dr. Stewart Grow of the Political Science Department announced that J. Albert House, President of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, will speak to his Pol. Sci. 310 class and to Professor Ray Hiram's Pol. Sci. 105 class.

The lecture will be given at 8 p.m. in 184 Knight Bldg. with an open meeting planned for 4 p.m. in 321 Y Center. The public is invited to hear Mr. House speak. The speaker will be on campus all day Thursday.

Italian Village Waits Woman's Revenge

Justice and revenge are the themes of "The Visit" now showing at the Pioneer drive-in theater.

Adapted from the Friedrich Dürrenmatt play of the same name, "The Visit" has been performed on stages across the globe and has won wide critical acclaim.

AS A MOTION picture, "The Visit" tells of a woman's return to her home town after a 20-year absence. In that time she has risen from poverty to become the richest woman in the world, while the town, Guelien, has reached the brink of bankruptcy. Guelien is located in an unidentified Middle European country.

The woman, Karla Zachanassian, played by Ingrid Bergman, offers the townspeople financial aid—the staggering sum of two million—on one condition. She wants revenge, but the terms of her conditions are so fiendish and frightening that the people quickly reject her offer.

BUT KARLA is content to wait. Cynically she sits on the balcony of the local inn, observing the effects of her disintegration of the object of her condition, a shopkeeper played by Anthony Quinn. Karla had an affair with the shopkeeper 20 years ago, and because of him had been forced to leave Guelien.

Steadily the tension and suspense builds as the citizens of Guelien have second thoughts about the money and its usefulness.

They begin to wonder if Karla's condition is so horrible after all. The shopkeeper and the townspeople all wait for the inevitable day when reason will give way to greed.

AWS Fetes Girls Tonight With Big Reception

All freshmen girls will be honored tonight in a "Big and Little Sister Reception" sponsored by AWS-at 7:30 in the East Ball Room of the Y Center.

With the theme, "Consider Yourself at Home," the AWS council will present a program designed to entertain and acquaint the girls with AWS and its activities.

All women students on and off campus are invited; refreshments will be served.

The skits to be presented are under the direction of Carma Marie Moore. Also to be featured are Maxine Cappel and Marie Peterson.

Trudy Teichert is this year's chairman of the AWS "Big and Little Sister" program.

Dance Classes Need Pianists

Pianists are being recruited for daily dance classes being held in the Women's Gymnasium according to instructors who are conducting classes without music this week.

The pianists are needed all day, with several people being hired for each period if necessary. A salary will be given. The major requirement for applicants is that they be able to improvise and possibly have had previous experience.

Those interested may contact the Women's Gym, extension 2414.

Cougar Grid Fans Charter Busses

by Bruce Van Orden
Universe Sportswriter

Highlighting Brigham Young University's athletic history this week are activities planned around the Cougars' bout with New Mexico in the new stadium Friday night.

THE STADIUM opening will draw numerous LDS conference visitors and Cougars from the Salt Lake City area.

Some sixty busses are being chartered in Salt Lake City for the event. Individual warrants from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have chartered many of these busses for excursions to the stadium. Approximately eight busses are standing by for out-of-state conference visitors.

BUS-RIDERS will receive a dollar deduction on their fares if they had purchased three or four dollar tickets prior to departing for Provo.

Special trains were planned but the Denver and Rio Grande Railway did not have enough passenger trains available.

FREE-GAME activities begin at 7 p.m. Doug Stewart will direct "In Retrospect," a program highlighting BYU's football and stadium history. Cosmo, the BYU symbol of athletic enthusiasm, will make a triumphant entry.

Cross-country runners will begin carrying a torch from the Church Office Building in Salt Lake City and will arrive just prior to the game.

A HALF-TIME program will salute President David O. McKay and other church leaders who have contributed to the building of BYU. The University Marching band and 23 high school bands will entertain. The "Western Athletic Conference March," composed by Ralph Laycock, will be

Underdogs Grind Axe Friday Night Homefield, Cougars Sole Advantage

by Otis Dean
Asst. Sports Director

There may have been a time when the Cougar just for blood greater, but no one in or around the area of the Week ...

Oborn elected Barbers

by Roger McVane
Universe Sportswriter

Fellow, do you want to know how to get a free haircut? WELL, HERE is the answer, you have to do it to be the best player for BYU in intercollegiate athletics during the week. This is the case of Kent Oborn, who this week is being honored by the Y Center Barber-shop as Player of the Week.

Oborn was a standout in the ball game last week against the Pumas. He was the only Cougar who was able to score against the Pumas.

Question: What about the game last week?

Answer: It wasn't that bad, but the point returns were the best that I've seen.

Question: You were All-state Prep All-American in high school weren't you Kent? What was your reason for coming to BYU?

Answer: Yes, I received those letters, but they didn't mean too much to me when you're playing in college. I decided on BYU mostly because it has a good coach staff, and you can't beat the facilities around here.

Question: Are you active in any other sports at the Y?

Answer: Yes, last year I was on the freshman basketball team. I've given up on that sport in order to concentrate on football.

Question: What are your plans for the completion of your studies here?

Answer: Well, I'm a pre-dental student now, so I still have four years of school after I graduate at BYU, but I also have to go on a mission pretty soon.

Question: How does the team go up this year after the two losses?

Answer: It looks good to me, we are now striving for perfection in our play and we are all for the game this week in the stadium. We are just starting to become one unit, and it is going to get better.

round Provo can remember it. The Cougars, nursing the defeats of the two previous outings are considered the underdogs by BYU observers. Ironically, the New Mexico Wolfpack consider themselves also the underdogs in this highly publicized contest.

DESPITE THE Cat's appetite for an inaugural victory they are statistically the underdog as the Lobos arrive with a 1-1 record opposed to the 0-2 tag hanging on the Cats.

The Lobos on the other hand have not won a football tilt in the Desert State since early in 1960. Their last encounter with the Cougars in the Cougar's own den found them running back, tail between legs, after being halted 27-0.

THE TWO TEAMS are nearly equal in the scoring column of the season, New Mexico having scored 19 points and the Pumas 33. Interesting to note is the fact that the BYU team scored 13 points against the respectable Oregon team and 6 points against speedy Wildcats of Arizona. New Mexico on the other hand went scoreless in their first contest with Utah and managed only 20 points against the downtrodden Montana squad.

The New Mexico team has been working hard to overcome their most obvious weaknesses, namely pass defense and offense. Two weeks ago the Utes riddled the Lobos aerial defenses for 12 completions and total of 185 yards via the air ways. The Wolves will be showing respect for the successful wing of BYU quarterback Virgil Carter who tossed two touchdown passes against Oregon.

THE TOTAL air yardage gained by New Mexico in their two games is an embarrassing five yards. This indicates a running game for the Lobos Friday.

BYU has flown for a respectable 265 yards and two of their through the atmosphere.

Three touchdowns have come. The defending champions edge the homeowners in all fields except the advantage usually given tie home team.

THE BYU LINE averages 209 pounds, the backfield balances out at 188 each and the team average is 202 pounds. Shading the Pumas are the Lobos with a line average of 218 pounds, the back average of 195, and over all average of 209 pounds.

Coch. Tommy Haispeth will probably go with the same starters that he used against the Wildcats last week as no players were lost to injuries in that game.

Pregame programs will get underway at 7 p.m. with the fly-line football to be winging its way toward the offense at 8 p.m.
